DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-6 are the combination claims, drawn to a basic transmission system for vehicle, classified in class 701, subclass 51.
- II. Claim 7 is a subcombination claim, drawn to transmission control and clutch control, classified in class 192, subclass 3.51.
- III. Claims 8-15 are process claims, drawn to a process of controlling automatic transmission with fluid operated clutch, classified in class 477, subclass 56.3.

Inventions ~~I~~^{I/II} and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the invention ~~I~~^{I/II} is an apparatus for an automatic transmission for a vehicle can be used to practice the process of controlling fuel supply to the engine during coasting of the vehicle.

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the controller is adapted to calculate the slip rotation speed of the lockup clutch, and control the hydraulic device so that the oil pressure of the lockup clutch becomes constant if the slip rotation speed calculated is greater than a predetermined rotation speed during a downshift of the automatic transmission. The subcombination has separate utility such as calculation means for calculating the slip rotation speed of the lockup clutch, and control means for controlling the hydraulic device so that the oil pressure of the lockup clutch becomes constant if the slip rotation speed calculated is greater than a predetermined rotation speed during a downshift.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purpose as indicated is proper.

Species Election:

Upon election of invention I, II, or III, the applicant is further required under 35 U.S.C 121 to elect one of the following disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable (currently, no claims appear to be generic):

A. Embodiment wherein slip rotation speed calculated is greater than predetermined rotation speed during a downshift of the automatic transmission.

B. Embodiment wherein slip rotation speed calculated is less than a predetermined rotation speed while the oil pressure fixing control is being executed.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election. Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
